City Needs New Storm Sewers, Schriner Says

Tells City Council
Why Basements Are Flooded After Rains

Basements are flooded by heavy rainstorms in an area which the Sixth and Seventh wards were given at the city meeting Monday night by Mayor Schriner, superintendent of public works, a detailed analysis of the city's storm sewer system.

A detailed storm and sanitary sewer system constructed in 1894 with a 12-inch pipe based on population of 30 years ago provides drainage now available in the city. The storm sewer system is located on the property north of the city, from Hunter avenue to the city line, and north to the city line.

The sewer line ranges in size from 12 inches at Hunter avenue to 24 inches at the city line. The sewer line enters the city at the city line, and the sewer line is located on the property north of the city, from Hunter avenue to the city line, and north to the city line.

Newspaper is Host To Rural Correspondents

Salaries Increased
And New Methods Of Writing Explained

In an effort to improve the quality of news and to give the readers of this paper more news, interestingly written, concerning the towns near Kankakee, the Republican-News gave a banquet at the McBroome's last night for its country correspondents.

Nearly 30 correspondents attended, representing as many towns in the territory covered by this newspaper.

According to a long established plan, the country correspondents are paid according to the number of inches they write. Special material such as large fires, murders, accidents and other important items are given a separate rate.

They All Earn More

Beginning today correspondents who turn in news poorly written will receive the lower rate, which is still higher than the former rate, and correspondents turning in news well written will receive the higher rate.

It is believed that this plan will induce correspondents to write carefully.

Style books, pamphlets containing instructions covering each questionable point of writing, were presented to the correspondents.

Albert P. Mayer, city editor, and Burdell Small of the Republican-News spoke to the correspondents concerning news writing and the payment plan.

Mrs. May R. Seiler of Martinton, a correspondent of this newspaper for 18 years, said at the conclusion of the banquet last night, "I deeply appreciate the fact that the Republican-News is improving the status of the correspondents and is helping them with news writing."

Through her attorney, Victor N. Cardozo, Mrs. Hopper alleges desertion. She asks maintenance for herself and son Donald and ownership of personal effects.

Suit for separate maintenance was filed today by Mrs. Florence Hopper vs. Edward Hopper, both of Kankakee.

The company, one of the nation's largest manufacturers of rifle and gun cartridges, is engaged on a $700,000 United States government order and recently announced it would increase its working force from approximately 2,000 to 6,000. It has been operating on three shifts for months.

Authorized sources said heavy blows in the past 24 hours had been delivered against the British capital's traffic junctions and subway stations, and that the striking power of the Royal Air force had been blunted.

Hurricane Off New Brunswick Blowing Itself Out To Sea

Halifax, N. S. Sept. 17.—(UP)—A tropical hurricane buffeted Canada's maritime provinces all night but appeared to be blowing itself out in northeastern New Brunswick and the Gulf of St. Lawrence today.

After causing damage estimated at more than $1,000,000 and injuring scores of persons.

The center of the storm at noon was off Chatham, N. B., its violence gradually abating as it moved toward the gulf. The hurricane's velocity, which had been gauged as high as 90 miles an hour in places, was reported to have diminished to 40 to 45 miles an hour.

During the hours of maximum intensity the storm had smashed ships, disrupted communications and power and destroyed crops in its path.

Damage to Nova Scotia's apple crop alone was estimated at $250,000. All communications between Nova Scotia and Prince Edward island were cut off.

Maine's northern coast felt the backlash of the hurricane. Wind velocity rose as high as 70 miles an hour inland, small vessels were driven ashore, power lines were broken at Eastport and Houlton, and the two-masted schooner George Dresser of Belfast was smashed against a ledge at Hardy's Point near Bar Harbor. Snow flurries accompanied the storm in the northern part of the state.

Various States Preparing For Conscription

Staffs Set Up For Taking
Huge Inventory
Of U. S. Manpower

Chicago, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Paul G. Armstrong of Chicago today was appointed as state director of selective service to administer the Illinois conscription program.

Armstrong, who described himself as a Republican "who had never been active in politics," said he was entirely in sympathy with the principles of selective service.

Armstrong will be aided in his task by two assistants, one of whom will be assigned to Cook county and the other to the downstate area with headquarters in Springfield, and by members of the draft boards throughout the state.

Gen. Regan said 254 boards would be established in Illinois. Of that number 103 will be set up in Cook county, 78 of them in Chicago. Each board will have three members.

Armstrong and Regan said that the two assistant directors might be named within a week or 10 days.

By JOHN A. REICHMANN

Washington, Sept. 17.—(UP)—State and federal governments were creating America's first peace time conscription army today.

Staffs in each state capital were in action along a pattern developed over many years for the huge inventory of manpower to be conducted on Oct. 16, the first step toward putting 400,000 men in the army by Jan. 1.

Simultaneous with progress on the draft, 35,700 more national guardsmen were ordered to report for active service Oct. 15. It was the second contingent called to the colors, 80,500 having reported yesterday.

George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, in announcing the second national guard order last night in a radio address, cautioned that the next six months might be "the most critical in the history of this nation."

President Roosevelt, in the presence of Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and other high officials, yesterday wrote across the en-

Bergdoll Must Serve Sentence As Draft Dodger

Total Of Seven Years
Is Fate Of Famous Prisoner

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Federal Judge John C. Knox today dismissed a writ of habeas corpus obtained on behalf of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, world war draft dodger, and ruled that Bergdoll must serve the full five-year sentence imposed in 1920 by an army court martial, and in addition a two-year sentence imposed in 1939 for his flight to Germany.

Judge Knox upheld the government's contention that at the time Bergdoll was court-martialed as an army deserter, a state of war existed between the United States and Germany.

"Notwithstanding the fact that at the time of sentence, hostilities between the United States and Germany had long ceased," he said, "a state of war between the two countries still continued."

Mathias Correa, assistant U. S. attorney, had pointed out that Congress had not declared a state of peace until March 3, 1921.

In seeking the writ Bergdoll's attorney had contended that on the basis of an executive order of President Wilson in 1916, punishment for desertion was limited to 18-months imprisonment if the deserter had been in service less than six months.

Military Officer

Judge Knox ruled: "The president's right to prescribe limits to punishment of military offenders is confined to times of peace. In times of war, the mandate of congress, so far as it concerned the right of a court-martial to pronounce such judgment as its discretion dictates, is the measure of the court-martial's authority."

The "mandate" he referred to was a statute making the punishment for desertion as severe as death.

Bergdoll in 1918 was accused of draft evasion, and was counted in the army then.

Mayfair Area Of London In Path Of Bombs

Number Of Fires Start
And Considerable
Damage Is Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A westerly gale sweeping through the English channel throughout last night scattered Germany's invasion fleet and sent her ships scurrying for shelter, the air ministry announced today in giving reports of British reconnaissance planes.

Many British convoys passed through the channel today, without any German attempt to molest them, it was said.

British planes combing the German-occupied coast across the channel reported "sudden changes" in the disposition of German ships which previously had been spotted.

The storm, which along with a thick fog, was a welcome barrier to any immediate invasion, failed however to stop German planes in their attacks at London.

The city experienced three air-raid alarms during the day.

By mid-morning the Germans had made two daylight raids here following one of the heaviest night assaults on the British capital.

Another morning raid by a lone attacker on a southeast English town caused considerable damage and a number of casualties, with bombs hurled on a shopping center and private dwellings.

The air ministry announced German bombs fell last night in the heart of London's exclusive Mayfair area of the west end, Bond, Regent and Oxford streets, Piccadilly, Park Lane, Berkeley and Sloan Squares were hit.

Much Damage by Fire

An official announcement said the night attack was concentrated on the London area and that a number of fires were started and considerable damage done, but that casualties "on the whole, do not appear to have been heavy."

One of the daylight attackers was believed downed by anti-aircraft fire and another was reported snared in a barrage balloon cable during the night.

The admiralty announced that for the week ended September 9 the Germans sank 54,547 tons of British, allied and neutral merchant shipping—a figure slightly above the weekly average of 53,900 tons, but less than a third of the 188,500 tons claimed by the Nazis.

Bringing what Britons considered to be relief from the danger of a channel invasion, a southwest wind of near-gale velocity churned the Straits of Dover.

"Churchill Weather"

British seamen, watching the channeled eye, said the blow looked like the beginning of the fall storms and declared that Adolf Hitler had lost his best chance to attempt a landing on the shores of England.

From the Dover coast an Associated Press correspondent telephoned this report to London:

"It's 'Churchill weather' here this morning. There's a nasty cross-sea running and the channel here would be bad for regular steamers in peacetime, let alone for any flat-bottomed troop barges."

"Sailors say this is a number seven wind-gale force is number nine. There's mist on the water, clouds overhead and the outlook (Continued on Page Four)

2,000 Britishers Killed And 8,000 Are Wounded

Churchill Again Warns Of Invasion Plans Of The Germans

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
London, Sept. 17.—Winston Churchill today declared that the Germans are continuing "steadily" to deploy barges and ships in preparation for an invasion of the British Isles and warned: "We must expect that they will make the attempt at what he judges to be the best opportunity."
He referred, of course, to Adolf Hitler.

Churchill spoke before an assembly of commons which began at 2:45 p. m. (7:45 a. m. C.S.T.), but the fact that it was in session was kept secret for more than two hours because of repeated air-raids over London.

The great stained glass windows of the house had been removed and plain glass substituted.

Adjoins During Raid
The house adjourned shortly after 11 p. m. when the air-raid siren sounded the third alarm since dawn at 2:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. C.S.T.), but re-assembled before the all-clear blew.

The prime minister's statement, his first to commons in nearly two weeks, ranged from a recapitulation of air-raid casualties at home to a terse announcement that "sharp fighting" was taking place between the armored vehicles of British forces in western Egypt and those of the Italian invaders.

Disclosing that 2,000 persons had been killed and about 8,000 wounded in the first half of September in air-raids on Britain, Churchill asserted this bombardment was carried out with the "silly" idea that it would force the British government to make peace.

He added: "We can await the decision of this prolonged air battle with sober and increasing confidence."

That, he asserted, was because the Royal Air Force has done serious damage to the German invasion preparations on the other side of the English channel and because British strength is developing steadily by air, land and sea.

Production Increased
"We are only now beginning to get the increased flow of production from the great programs started at the outbreak of the war," he said.

All our preparations must, therefore, be maintained in a state of vigilance.

"The process of waiting (for invasion) no doubt imposes a heavy strain on all concerned, but we must not under-rate the damage inflicted on the enemy by the very heavy and prolonged nightly bombardment of his concentrations of shipping and upon all focal points of his assembly of troops."

Churchill ascribed the repeated air attacks on London "and our being king and queen to the idea that the people would be 'thrown into confusion' and that the government would therefore be forced to submit."

This "general barbarity," he said, had failed utterly of its purpose.

Willkie urged the crowd to "think of those men about Roosevelt, and added, 'when you continue one man in office, you continue a group in office.'"

He asked: "Who do you want as your spokesman?"

Many in the audience replied, "Wendell Willkie."

Who speaks in answer to what Wendell Willkie says? It is that silver-tongued orator, Ross Forman of the Bronx.

Willkie declared that a spokesman for Argentina had announced the administration would modify a tariff regulation "after election in order to let Argentine cattle come into the United States."

Then, the Republican nominee said, the President declared that he had been misunderstood in a talk with the Argentine representative.

"How can cattlemen or anyone else know how they stand in a situation like that?" Willkie asked.

Amazillo police chief, W. R. McJannet, estimated that 30,000 persons heard the extemporaneous speech at the park and that 50,000 persons lined the streets through which Willkie passed on his way to the site of the speaking.

Must Set Up Administration
Before the conscription machinery will get into full swing Mr. Roosevelt must issue an executive order setting up the selective service administration in Washington and naming the man to lead it. He is expected to act on his return from the funeral of the late Speaker William B. Bankhead.

This morning officers who have been preparing a selective service plan since war broke out have moved from the war college in a remote part of Washington to downtown offices near the war department. Due to decentralization of the draft plan, with state governors handling machinery, Washington headquarters is not expected to exceed 200 men.

Some of the army people supporting him may possibly have somewhat less scrupulous. He has been in the line of duty for a long time and has a lot of knowledge of actions taken by the government.

People who shudder at the sight of a man who is not a native-born citizen may not be impressed by the fact that they are now the owners of $20,000,000 worth.

People who are not allowed to have any money, but Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is not in the line of duty for a long time and has a lot of knowledge of actions taken by the government.

Lionel Guimond Is Married in Chicago

The marriage of Miss Geraldine Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richards of Chicago, and Lionel Guimond, son of Mrs. J. J. Guimond of Manteno, took place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in St. Anne church in Chicago. Rev. O'Brien read the ceremony in the presence of a host of relatives and friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. J. J. Guimond, and the sister of the bride, was a matron of honor. She was attended in the gown with a tulle and blusher to match and carried a colonial bouquet of gladioli and roses.

The bride wore a white satin gown fashioned with shirred bodice, long sleeves and train. Her long tulle veil was held in place with a spray of white ribbons and baby breath.

Attending the groom were his brother, Ernest, and his sister, Mary, of Langlois. The bride's mother wore a burgundy crepe with matching gloves. The groom's mother wore a solid blue crepe with black accessories. Both wore shoulder bouquets of tallies and roses.

During the nuptial high mass, Countess de Maria was sung and there were organ selections. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock. The bride and groom left for Chicago at 2 o'clock. ## Italians Drive Into Egypt In Intense Heat

British Sources Claim
Foe's Gains Have Cost
Them Dearly

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cairo, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Italian motorized columns driving into Egypt from Libya, have pushed 40 miles from the border in three days of fighting, official British sources acknowledged today. They said, however, the Italians' gains had cost them dearly.

British land and air forces inflicted heavy losses, it was announced, in repeated bombing and shelling of the Fascist vanguard. The desert battle for empire has raged in intense heat, with the temperature climbing to 110 and 120 degrees at times and with combatants limited in some cases to scant supplies of water.

So far as could be learned in Cairo, the area occupied by the Italians was confined to a narrow strip along the Mediterranean coast. Alexandria is goal.

The goal of the Fascist drive apparently was Alexandria, site of an important British naval base, which still is more than 250 miles beyond the reported advance.

While the main Italian force appeared to be consolidating its position around the border port of Salum, captured Saturday night, strong motorized units have pushed on past Buqbuq, a oasis a mile and a half from the Mediterranean consisting of a well, a few palm trees and several mud huts.

Buqbuq, on the road to Alexandria, was abandoned weeks ago by its Egyptian inhabitants.

The Egyptian government, which still has not declared war on Italy, is rushing anti-aircraft preparations but apparently is counting on the British to halt the advance long before the Italians get anywhere near the fertile Nile valley, in which almost all of Egypt's population is concentrated.

Stiff Opposition
A British communiqué last night said British bombing planes swooped down on large motor transports heading the Italian advance near Buqbuq, sending the vehicles up in flames which could be seen 40 miles away. Tank trucks carrying gasoline were said to be special targets.

The communiqué declared Italian planes supporting the desert push ran into stiff opposition. Royal air force fighters shot down six Italian bombers, it was said, and three others were listed as probably destroyed. One British plane failed to return from the engagement. To the south, continuing skirmishing was reported among British and Italian patrols along the farflung northern border of Kenya colony. The British said they were inflicting severe losses and retarding Italian forces trying to move southward in the direction of Nairobi, Kenya capital.
